Phone Meetings and Events – Around the Globe

Today's phone meetings often involve international participants. Copper Conferencing sorts through the most efficient and economical ways to connect with employees, partners and associates located around the globe. We take the anxiety out of remote meetings, making it convenient and affordable for you to include international participants, regardless of the type of phone or web meeting.

Connect international participants using the following options:

- International Toll-Free Services (ITFS) Participants access the conference call by dialing a toll-free number in their home country. The meeting host pays the ITFS charges.
- US Toll Dial-In International participants dial a toll (local) US number and incurs their own long distance charges. The meeting host pays the same per minute domestic conferencing rate for all participants.
- International Local Access (ITL) Participants from various international locations can dial into their US hosted conference using a local number in their home country. ITL covers 17 countries and 30 major cities outside the US, throughout Europe and the Asia Pacific.
- International Dial-Out. The meeting host can dial-out to international participants and bring them into the conference call. On an operator-assisted call, the operator can place the call.
